JARDINE HITS AT BACKERS OF M'NARY BILL

Administration Challenges Farm Groups in Question of Finance

WOULD BURDEN FARMER

Does Not Consider Plight of Corn, Cattle, Dairy or Cotton Producers

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright 1926, by Post Pub. Co.

Washington—Secretary Jardine of the agricultural department, has at last played the administration trump card in fighting the movement represented by the McNary-Haugen bill plan. For a long time the administration has remained on the defensive while the western organizations have piled up ammunition and played their big guns in congress on the farm policies of the Coolidge regime.

Now Mr. Jardine has disclosed an argument which challenges the farm groups to answer effectively and yet retain the support they have had from certain farm states. The secretary draws attention to the fact that out of the $35,000,000 bushels of wheat produced about 412,000,000 is actually consumed by the farmer himself. Does the farmer wish to pass on to him nearly half the extra cost of financing the McNary-Haugen plan? And would that amount be offset by any gains he would receive?

FAIL TO PROFIT

The wheat farmer, of course, would profit by the higher price per bushel that he would receive for domestic wheat, but this does not take into account the plight of the corn farmer, the cattle farmer, the cotton farmer, the dairy farmer and all the other kinds of farmers who make up the great body of agricultural strength, economically and politically in America. This, therefore, is what the administration now asks the defenders of the McNary-Haugen plan to answer. The question really is: Do the wheat farmers wish to saddle the consumer—namely their brother farmers—with an extra expense for wheat consumption? If they do, then will the senators and representatives from those states which have cattle, dairy, cotton, corn and other farm products continue to support the McNary-Haugen plan?

The proponents of the plan have all along been endeavoring to win support from the farm groups other than wheat by offering to apply the same principle of an equalization fee to keep up domestic prices, but the question then resolves itself into whether the added expense for consumable goods is offset by the higher revenue from the sale of products.

PROBLEM LIKE TARIFF

In many respects the problem is like the tariff. What one section of the country wants in the form of protection, another section protests is a high cost tacked on to consumable goods. By a system of compromises, tariff bills have been written, but the present agitation in the west against the Fordney-Cumber bill is considered proof of what the difficulties are in writing a tariff that satisfies all sections. Similarly the question now is whether an equalization fee could be devised that could unite all agricultural groups under a single standard. The administration has countered with a question that is purposely designed to divide the farm groups and whether the effort succeeds depends on how the western organizations answer the argument. If they do not answer it, the chances are the president himself will offer it as one of his main reasons for declaring the plan of doubtful benefit to agriculture as a whole.

WINS RACE

Governor John J. Blaine, who defeated United States Senator Irvine L. Lenroot, candidate for renomination, in Tuesday's primary. Senator Lenroot took an early lead over the governor in the first reports Tuesday evening, but fell behind when reports were made from the Progressive strongholds, while Blaine gained consistently.

PLAN ANEW FOR FALL ELECTION

Independent May Oppose Zimmerman; Phil LaFollette Suggested

Janesville—(AP)—The Janesville Gazette will say Wednesday that an independent Progressive gubernatorial candidate, probably Phil LaFollette, son of the late Senator Robert M. LaFollette, will be placed in the gubernatorial field by the LaFollette-Blaine Progressives to seek election in November.

The newspaper says it learned authoritatively that immediately upon receipt of word indicating the election of Fred R. Zimmerman, secretary of state who defeated Attorney General Herman L. Ekern "Madison ring" candidate, a call was issued for a meeting of Progressives to consider placing an independent candidate in the field. Phil LaFollette, present district attorney of Dane-co is mentioned most prominently.

JURY DECIDES BOMBER COMMITTED SUICIDE

Pittsburg—(AP)—A coroner's jury decided Wednesday that William Chovick, Wisconsin ex-convict committed suicide when he exploded a bomb in the Farmers Deposit Savings bank Aug. 24 after his demand for $2,000 was refused. A verdict of murder was returned in the case of George C. Orman, a bank policeman who was killed in the blast.

ALMOST ALL SCHOOLS IN COUNTY ARE OPEN

More than 100 of the 117 rural schools in the county opened for the fall and winter terms on Tuesday, it was reported Wednesday by County Superintendent A. G. Meating. The few schools remaining closed are those where classes are in progress only 8 months, it was stated.

STATE GROUP IN CONGRESS NOT CHANGED

Only Doubt Is Struggle Between Hull and Beck, Seventh District

Milwaukee—(AP)—Likelihood that Wisconsin's insurgent group in the house of representatives would remain intact appeared Wednesday as more complete returns showed nearly all Republican congressmen far ahead in their fight for renomination in the primary election Tuesday.

In four out of five contests within the Republican ranks Progressive Republican congressmen appeared assured of victory. Congressman J. D. Beck of Viroqua, is gaining on Merlyn F. Hull, Black River Falls, who has held a slight margin since the outset in the three cornered race in the Seventh district.

Wisconsin has eleven representatives in the lower house and ten are Republicans. Victor Berger, Milwaukee socialist, is the other member. Four congressmen, including Henry Allen Cooper, who has represented the first district for 31 years, were renominated without opposition. The other fortunate ones were Congressman John C. Schafer, Milwaukee; James A. Frear, Hudson, and John M. Nelson, Madison, leader of the house insurgents.

OLD MEMBERS RETURN

Of the five Progressive Republican congressmen engaged in tussles for the G. O. P. nomination Congressman Beck alone found determined opposition. Apparently successful candidates are Congressman Florian J. Lampert, Oshkosh, Sixth district; Representative E. E. Browne, Wausau, Eighth district; Congressman J. J. Schneider, Appleton, Ninth district and Congressman H. H. Penney, Washburn, Eleventh district.

C. R. Kading, Watertown attorney endorsed by the LaFollette-Blaine-Ekern group, is leading in the Second district which will elect a successor to Congressman Edward Volgt who is not a candidate for reelection. Kading is a comfortable lead over Ed J. Gehl, conservative Republican and three other aspirants.

Former Congressman William H. Stafford led a field of seven candidates to capture the Republican nomination for the seat of Victor Berger.

KOSTUCK MAKES DEBUT

Candidates of some prominent Progressives added uncertainty to the outcome of several congressional fights. In the Eleventh district represented for many years by Senator Lenroot, Congressman Peavy was opposed by J. H. Carroll, another progressive Republican, and Ray J. Nye, former federal prohibition commissioner.

The contest in the Eighth district brought two Progressives into the field. Congressman Browne appears to have defeated Arthur W. Prehn, former district attorney of Marathon, co and John F. Kostuck, blind, of Stevens Point. Kostuck made his debut in politics while Prehn attempted for the second time in two years to defeat Congressman Browne.

SCHNEIDER AGAINST HOLLY

Congressman J. J. Schneider, one of the Wisconsin congressmen, who voted favorably on the world court resolution in the lower house but who repudiated it in the campaign ran with the support of Governor Blaine. His opponent was Assemblyman Anton Holly of Kewaunee, a progressive Republican.

Roy E. Reed, Ripon, close personal friend of Senator Lenroot, ran second in the Sixth congressional district long represented by Congressman Lampert. C. H. Wiese, Oshkosh, ran a poor third.

FREE FOR ALL FIGHT

The race in the Second district developed into a free for all with conservatives and progressives vying for votes. Ed. Gehl, Hartford, identified with the conservative Republican state convention led Kading up to midnight only to fall behind as additional returns were reported from strong LaFollette-Blaine territory. Other candidates in the race are Adolph H. Hartwig, Watertown, John Vermeulen, Waupun, John H. Kalsen, Port Washington.

Stafford had opposition from six candidates in his effort to stage a comeback.

County Goes Strong For Blaine And Zimmerman

Showing a perversity that was typical of the entire state, Outagamie-co voters Tuesday split their allegiance with the La Follette party, giving huge leads to Governor Blaine for United States senator and then supporting Blaine's arch-enemy, Fred R. Zimmerman, for governor. Blaine was given a majority of 1,600 votes over I. L. Lenroot, for United States senator and Zimmerman was almost 800 votes ahead of the Blaine candidate, Herman Ekern, for governor.

Blaine and Zimmerman carried both city and county precincts but Lenroot did better in the city than he did in the country. Blaine's lead in Appleton was only 160 while his majority in the county was in the neighborhood of 1,400. Zimmerman, on the other hand, gathered a lead of 700 in the city but finished only 100 ahead in the rural districts.

SMITH RAN THIRD

Smith, avowed wet, ran third in the county, polling 872 votes and Perry, nominated by the conservative Republican convention trailed far in the rear with 374 votes. Candidate Kelly for the United States senate was far out of the running finishing with 464 votes.

The heaviest vote was cast in the sheriff race, 10,392 voters marking ballots. Only 9,857 votes were cast in the senatorial race and 10,072 ballots were marked in the contest for governor.

The La Follette-Blaine slate for other state officers carried the county by huge majorities. Solomon Levitan ran far ahead of C. B. Ballard in Ballard's home county in the contest for state treasurer. Levitan was rolling up a huge majority all over the state. All the candidates with the Blaine-La Follette mark on them were easy winners, carrying almost every precinct. Here and there the conservatives ran off with a ward or a town but they were few and far between.

Tables showing how the precincts voted will be found on page 8 of this paper.

"STINK BOMB" THROWERS PAY FINES IN COURT

Two crestfallen young men whose idyllic sense of the ridiculous had been sadly deflated by their arrest on charges of disorderly conduct incident to the placing of several odorous "bombs" in the majestic theater Saturday night were each fined $5 and costs when arraigned before Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Wednesday morning.

Ray Sauer, Two Rivers, said by police to have purchased the ill smelling pellets also was fined an additional $10 with attendant costs on a charge of driving an automobile without a license.

Harry Anderson, Menasha, his companion in the theater exploit, was said to have received the bombs from Sauer and to have dropped them in the theater. His fine was paid.

The young man from Two Rivers was endeavoring to raise something more than $20 to square his account with the court, according to latest reports.

MUSICIANS MAY STRIKE IF AGREEMENT FAILS

Chicago—(AP)—A walkout of musicians in all Orpheum circuit vaudeville theatres and all Balaban and Katz motion picture houses is a very definite possibility if the conference sought for Wednesday afternoon between theater men and officials of the striking musicians' unions here fails to reach a settlement. James Petrillo, musicians' chief, said Wednesday.

WISCONSIN SOCIETY TO HOLD ANNUAL REUNION

Three Court Senators Are Renominated In Primary

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Renomination of three Republican senators and defeat of a fourth—Senator Irvine L. Lenroot, leader of the administration's successful fight for admission to the world court—was indicated Wednesday on the basis of incomplete returns from the primaries of Tuesday in Nevada, Arizona, Wisconsin and New Hampshire.

In Wisconsin the results of a struggle between Senator Lenroot and the La Follette forces showed that the incumbent was more than 10,000 votes behind his opponent, Governor John J. Blaine, late returns from Milwaukee county having overcome the earlier lead established by Senator Lenroot. In the republican gubernatorial race Fred R. Zimmerman, secretary of state, and anti-Blaine progressive,

RECOUNT OF VOTES SHOWS NEW WINNER

Await Official Canvass to Definitely Determine Sheriff Nominee

SHANNON LEADS BECHER

Clerk of Courts Renominated by Majority of 293 Votes

Nomination of a Republican candidate for sheriff may not be definitely known until after the official canvass of the votes cast in Tuesday's primary election, it was indicated late Wednesday afternoon when a recheck of unofficial returns showed that Earl Schwartz had been nominated over Otto H. Zuehlke by a majority of 20 votes. The first tabulation of the returns indicated that Zuehlke had been nominated by a majority of 100 votes.

The race now is so close that an official count will be necessary to decide the winner as there is a possibility that other errors will be found in the unofficial returns from the polls, despite the care that was used to obtain correct figures.

The unofficial tabulation gives Schwartz 4,674 votes and Zuehlke 4,654, a lead of 20 for Schwartz.

The race was exceedingly close all during the evening, with neither candidate more than a few votes ahead at any time. For a time Schwartz would have the lead and then it would veer to Zuehlke. About 3:30 Wednesday morning the tabulation, after all the precincts were in, showed that Zuehlke had won by 100 votes. On Wednesday a recheck was undertaken with the result that errors were found which took Zuehlke's lead away and gave it to Schwartz.

The official canvass is to be made Thursday, it was reported at the courthouse.

The race for nomination for sheriff, however, did not have the thrills which attended the sharp contest between Carl Becher and Harry A. Shannon for Republican nomination for clerk of the courts. While Shannon's majority over Becher was nearly three times as large as Zuehlke's lead over Schwartz, yet the race was very much closer all the night until the very last few precincts were in. After 10 o'clock Tuesday night the two candidates never were more than 50 votes apart until along about 2:30 when the final Appleton and Kaukauna precincts reported. Several times during the evening the candidates were tied, then one would take the lead only to lose it to the other when the next precinct reported.

LOSE IN KAUKAUNA

Becher's supporters were sorely disappointed in the Kaukauna vote. They had banked strongly on carrying the Electric city, in fact they pinned their hopes on a Kaukauna majority large enough to offset the lead they were sure Shannon would have in the Sixth ward in Appleton. The Sixth ward ran true to form but Kaukauna was perverse and instead of giving Becher a lead it returned majorities for Shannon, burying Becher's hopes.

There were a lot of upsets during the evening in the Becher-Shannon race. Every few minutes a town that was expected to go for Shannon would throw its majority to Becher and a supposedly strong Becher precinct would flip over to Shannon. A prediction based on anything but sentiment was impossible until long after midnight.

There were persistent rumors on Tuesday that Becher was being urged to become an independent candidate for the office in the fall election but Becher would not discuss the matter. There also were rumors that Schwartz was considering becoming an independent candidate.

EASY WINNERS

What little doubt that might have existed relative to the contests for county treasurer and district attorney were dispelled early in the evening. Almost from the opening gun Miss Marie Ziegenhagen, incumbent treasurer, and District Attorney John A. Lonsdorf jumped into the lead and increased their edge over

PRIMARY IS FINAL; LENROOT WILL NOT RUN INDEPENDENTLY

Superior—(AP)—Senator Irvine L. Lenroot shortly after noon Wednesday gave the following statement to the Associated Press:

"The primary settled the senatorial race so far as I am personally concerned although I shall not support Governor Blaine. I couldn't do so with any self respect. "I have no regrets over the fight. I have made and I am especially grateful to my thousands of friends for their loyal support. I value their confidence and esteem more than any office."

BOARD OF CANVASSERS WILL MEET THURSDAY

The board of canvassers will meet at the courthouse on Thursday to conduct an official canvass of the vote cast on Primary day, it was announced by County Clerk John E. Hantschel. There is no indication that the count made at the polls was not accurate to the extent that only minor variations of totals may result from the canvass, it was stated.

CANDIDATES MUST FILE SECOND EXPENSE LIST

Candidates at Tuesday's primary must file a second expense account with County Clerk John E. Hantschel on or before Saturday of this week, Mr. Hantschel pointed out Wednesday. Even where no additional expenditures have been made above those filed that a second document be filed out prior to Primary Day the law reads and placed on record.

Gubernatorial Vote Shows Only Defeat for Progressive Party

BULLETIN

Milwaukee—(A.P.)—Returns from 2,253 precincts out of 2,728 in Wisconsin for the Republican United States senatorial nomination give Lenroot, 174,682; Blaine, 191,992; Kelly, 29,848.

Milwaukee—(AP)—As returns rolled in from the primary election Tuesday, Governor John J. Blaine foe of the world court and a avowed wet strengthened his lead over United States Senator Irvine L. Lenroot in the three cornered fight for the Republican senatorial nomination.

At the same time Fred R. Zimmerman, secretary of state for four years, running for governor in defiance of the LaFollette-Blaine Progressive machine appeared to have succeeded in defeating Attorney General Herman L. Ekern and two others for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. Zimmerman's apparent victory was the only upset to shake the solidarity of the LaFollette-Blaine Progressive Republican control of state and congressional offices. Candidates supported by the Governor and Senator Robert M. LaFollette, were running far ahead in the race for minor state offices. Their quest of the Republican nomination appeared successful over the opposition of two other factions. One was the group receiving the personal endorsement of Mr. Zimmerman and the other nominated by the state conservative Republican convention.

MILWAUKEE SUPPORTS BLAINE

While running far behind the vote polled in his successful campaigns for the governorship in 1922 and 1924, Blaine appeared to be assured of a comfortable margin of victory. The governor scored heavily in Milwaukee-co, which includes the state's metropolis. Supporters of Senator Lenroot hoped returns from his strongholds in the northern part of the commonwealth would aid appreciably in overcoming a portion of the lead which indicates his defeat.

Returns from 1992 out of 2,728 precincts of the state indicate the defeat of Senator Lenroot, 17 years a member of congress who stood on his record which included directing the successful fight of the administration for American adherence to the world court.

Governor Blaine has a lead of 16,000 from the precincts reported. The vote from 2,122 precincts is Blaine 174,682; Lenroot 164,896 and Kelly 29,822. From 2,728 Kelly is the avowed "wet candidate."

In accomplishing the defeat of Ekern, whom he termed the "Madison ring" candidate, Zimmerman was aided by the support of anti-Blaine Progressives and numerous conservative Republican leaders. The vote from 2,086 precincts gave Zimmerman a lead far in excess of that polled by Blaine. Zimmerman has 174,670; Ekern 124,882; Charles B. Perry, conservative, 50,588 and W. Stanley Smith, wet progressive 17,456.

For lieutenant governor 1371 precincts out of 2,728 in Wisconsin give Huber, Republican, 90,715. Tittemore, Republican 50,850. Hansen, Republican, 49,144. Secretary of state Damann, Republican, 74,824. O'Rourke, Republican, 26,071; Bell, Republican, 35,733; Bowen, Republican, 35,553. State treasurer, Lettan, Republican, 114,745; Henze, Republican, 34,523; Ballard, Republican, 35,250. Attorney general, Sheldon, Republican, 47,040. Twesend, Republican, 32,416. Reynolds, Republican, 87,396.

Results of the primary election congressional contest within the Republican ranks gleaned from reports of more than half the precincts in each district are as follows: Second district, 154 out of 235 precincts, C. R. Kading 5,227; E. J. Gehl 5,850; J. H. Kalsen 3,759; A. H. Hartwig 3,393 and J. Vermeulen 2,146. Sixth district, 118 out of 185 precincts, Congressman Florian J. Lampert, 11,267; Roy E. Reed, 6,736 and C. A. Wiese, 2,797. Seventh district, 154 out of 274 precincts, Merlyn F. Hull, 9,864; Congressman J. D. Beck, 9,005; and F. H. Ferguson, 1,534. Eighth district, 135 precincts out of 260, Congressman E. E. Browne, 13,274; Arthur W. Prehn, 8,199; and J. F. Kostuck, 2,396.

LENROOT HAS SLIGHT LEAD IN WAUPACA

Blaine Trails Senator by 121 Votes With Three Precincts Missing

Waupaca—Returns from 32 out of 55 precincts in Waupaca-co gave Lenroot a lead of 121 votes for Republican nomination for United States senator. The incumbent polled 2,724 votes to 2,403 for the present governor. Kelly's votes numbered 344.

Ekern suffered a worse defeat in this county than Blaine, trailing Zimmerman by 947. Their respective votes totaled 1,536 and 2,736. Perry was a poor third with 601 and Smith trailed the field with 215.

Browne had apparently won the nomination for congressman from the eighth district, having a lead of more than 1,500 votes over Prehn, his nearest opponent. Browne polled 2,576 votes, Prehn 1,311 and Kostuck 297. Lenroot and Ekern ran on even terms in Clintonville, each receiving 147 votes in that city. Kelly polled 33. Zimmerman amassed a good lead there, getting 615 votes to 309 for Ekern, 37 for Perry and 14 for Smith. Final reports on the figures on hand were not available early Wednesday morning.

FOUR BURNED IN CHILTON BLAZE

Bakery of Emile Everix Is Badly Damaged by Fire Tuesday Night

Four persons were burned, one severely, and the bakery operated by Emile Everix at Chilton, was badly damaged in a fire at 5:30 Tuesday evening.

The injured: Vincent Reinkeber, 17, Chilton, severe burns about the face and hands. John Berger, Victor Everix, and Howard Kraemer, all of Chilton, slight burns.

The fire originated in a vat of hot grease which was being heated preparatory to baking doughnuts. A passerby noticed flames issuing from the vat and, rushing into the bakery, he threw a pail of water over the grease, causing the fire to spread about the room.

The injured youths received their burns when they went to the aid of those fighting the fire. The damage to the building was available early Wednesday.

The volunteer fire department arrived at the scene of the conflagration shortly after it was discovered and succeeded in extinguishing flames before they could spread throughout the building. Had it not been for the efforts of the department, the bakery might have been razed, it was said.

If the person who discovered the fire had thrown a mat, which was always kept on hand for such emergencies, instead of water over the fire, the blaze would have been smothered at once, according to Mr. Everix.

PLANNING BOARD HEARS PLEA OF PAINT COMPANY

Firm Seeks Classification in Commercial and Light Manufacturing District

The application of the General Paint Co. for a classification in the commercial and light manufacturing district instead of the heavy manufacturing district was to be heard by the planning commission at a meeting at the city hall Wednesday afternoon.

Manufacturers of paint are now listed in the heavy manufacturing district, in provision with a zoning ordinance. The General Paint Co. manufacturers paint on a small scale for retail application, and cannot locate its place of business in the commercial and light manufacturing district where practically all of its business is done because of the zoning ordinance. There is no market for paint in the heavy manufacturing district, it is pointed out.

If the application is received with favor by the planning commission, the most probable course would be to amend the zoning ordinance to permit manufacturers of paint up to a certain output to locate in the commercial and light manufacturing district.

The application of the Traas Candy Co. for an extension of the commercial and light manufacturing district on N. Richmond-st also will be heard again. The application was brought up before the commission at a former meeting and was referred to the common council, but the latter body referred it back to the commission.

BLAINE AND EKERN LEAD IN CALUMET-CO

Blaine More Than 500 Votes Ahead of Lenroot in Senatorial Race

Chilton—Calumet-co, a stronghold of the Progressive Republican forces, lived up to expectations in the primary election Tuesday, throwing its main support to Blaine and Ekern.

The former carried 1,285 votes, while the latter polled 890 votes to 315. Kelly was a poor third for the Republican nomination for United States senator with only 83 votes.

The race for Republican nomination for governor was closer, although Ekern assumed a lead of 157 votes over Zimmerman. Their votes totaled 622 and 483, respectively. Hansen polled 126.

Huber, candidate for nomination for lieutenant governor on the Republican ticket, outdistanced his opponents with 705 votes, while Dammann, seeking the nomination for secretary of state on the same ticket, polled 771 ballots to lead the county.

Levitian swept the field for the state treasury nomination on the Republican ticket with 832 ballots, and Reynolds, with 590, led for nomination for attorney general.

Roy E. Reed and C. H. Wiese were swept aside by Florian Lampert for nomination for congressman from the Sixth district, the latter being accorded 849 votes. Reed totaled 497 and Wiese 168.

Merrit S. White, candidate for nomination for state senator, was easily the choice of the county with 574 votes. J. H. Denhardt secured 339 ballots and J. M. Smick 125.

The county candidates on the Republican ticket would outdistance their Democratic opponents by as wide a margin as state candidates was of course a foregone conclusion. There was only one candidate for county offices on each ticket.

Quaker Oats today. Grocers have two kinds: Quick Quaker, which cooks in 3 to 5 minutes, and Quaker Oats.

Quaker milling, too, retains much of the "bulk" of oats. And that makes laxatives less often needed. Protein, carbohydrates, and vitamins and "bulk" are thus combined to make Quaker Oats an excellently "balanced" food.

WELCOME 300 M. E. MINISTERS TO CONFERENCE

Congregational Leaders Extend Greetings to Methodist Preachers

"We welcome you to Appleton, the doors of our homes, churches, schools, mills and stores are open to you, use them as you see fit; the people of Appleton greet you," F. J. Harwood, Appleton, moderator of the national council of the Congregational church, said his address of welcome at the opening session of the Wisconsin Conference of Methodist Episcopal churches in the auditorium of First Methodist church Tuesday evening.

About 300 ministers and their wives attended the opening session.

"Appleton is the finest city in the state," Mr. Harwood said, "except one, and that is your own. We welcome you for what you represent, the church which is the greatest organization in the world today for righteousness and religion. Redemption must come through sacrifice, and sacrifice is the essence of religion and the thing the world needs today is religion and you are the men who bring it."

Joseph C. Roschush of Appleton presided at the meeting and Dr. B. D. Williams of Green Bay gave the opening prayer.

Dr. J. S. Hoagland of Milwaukee praised Appleton and the fine spirit of welcome in his response to the address by Mr. Harwood. He praised Wisconsin and the spirit of cooperation between the denominations in Appleton and he praised Appleton's new Methodist church.

HILBERT PEOPLE HURT AS 2 TRUCKS COLLIDE

Hilbert—C. Bickhart, Hilbert, and Mrs. Larde, his housekeeper, were cut about the hands and faces by flying glass at 9:45 Monday morning when the truck owned by Mr. Bickhart collided with another truck owned by the Hotel Chilton on the highway between Hilbert and Chilton. Mr. Bickhart was traveling south toward Chilton and was turning east at Breed's corner when his car was struck in the side by the truck coming north from Chilton. The Chilton truck was loaded with refuse which showered the occupants of the Bickhart truck, running their clothes.

"Jesus" way of living is the only true way to live."

Bishop Shepherd also gave a short address in which he praised Appleton and the spirit in which the ministers of the conference were welcomed to the city.

MINISTERS HEAR SPEAKER PLEAD FOR COOPERATION

Christianity Only True Religion, Itinerants' Club Told

"The realm of truth and experience which we share together is greater than the realm that separates us—we have more in common than we have apart," Dr. Lucius H. Bugbee of Minneapolis, Minn., said in an address at the itinerants' club meeting at Hotel Northern, at 5:30 Tuesday evening. This meeting was a part of the eighteenth annual session of the Wisconsin Conference of Methodist Episcopal churches which opened Tuesday morning and will continue through Sept. 13.

The Rev. Allen Adams, pastor of the Algoma-at Methodist church of Oshkosh, presided at the meeting. Bishop William O. Shepherd of Portland, Ore., who is to preside at the business meetings of the conference gave a short talk in which he said that the world was interested in young men who are applicants for entrance into the ministry. The older men realize that they haven't succeeded in building up the church, as they wanted to, and they hoped that the young men would be able to make progress, Bishop Stephen said.

Dr. Henry M. Wriston, president of Lawrence college, gave a short informal talk in which he welcomed the ministers and their wives to the city and invited them to Lawrence college.

Dr. Bugbee traced the human movement through the centuries since earliest civilization and showed the influence each group of people had in forming the varied opinions of the races of the world. He pleaded for common union and a cooperation between the nations and races of the world.

"Christianity is the only true religion," said Dr. Bugbee, "It doesn't mean that every religion is as good as the other or that it doesn't make any difference what religion a man belongs to, but they are all working for the same thing, the spiritual side."

Hospitality of the mind, the being able to see the other side of every problem and making friends with men and women from all walks of life was said to be the salvation of the world. He gave Robert Louis Stevenson as an example of a man who had had hospitality of mind.

About 125 ministers and their wives attended the meeting. The Appleton district quartet sang several selections. Members of this quartet are Trester Oosterhuis, Sidney B. Lewis, Loren E. Jones and Carl A. Reetz.

2 MEN SUE EACH OTHER FOR $300

Each Claims the Other Owes Him Money and Court Will Decide

Cross filed suits involving approximately $300 in each instance were tried Wednesday morning in the civil branch of municipal court in the case of Mark Hopkins against John Krueger, and John Krueger against Mark Hopkins.

Mr. Hopkins alleges that Krueger owes him about $300 for goods bought at auction some time ago. Krueger, lessee of a farm from Hopkins, contends that Hopkins owes him a like amount in which the lease contract is involved. The lease has more than a year yet to run, it was stated.

Since the auction and leasing of the farm the house on the premises has burned down and this fact also becomes a point at issue, it was stated. District Attorney John A. Londorff represents Mr. Hopkins while Attorney E. C. Smith was to try the case for Mr. Krueger.

BEGIN LAYING BRICK FOR CHURCH ADDITION

Laying of brick for the walls of the $40,000 addition to First Baptist church was started Tuesday. The concrete foundations were constructed last week. George Ashman, Appleton contractor, is in charge of the general construction. The building will house Sunday school rooms, an auditorium, a heating plant and lavatories and store rooms. It is expected that it will be completed about Nov. 1.

SCHNEIDER HAS HUGE LEAD OVER HIS OPPONENT

Congressman Sets Fast Pace for Other Candidates in Primary Here

George J. Schneider is reasonably sure of another two years at $10,000 a year as representative of the people of the Ninth congressional district at Washington. Mr. Schneider piled up such a huge lead in Outagamie-co over his opponent, Anton Holy of Kewaunee, that it is practically impossible for him to lose in the other counties of his district. It is more than probable he will carry the majority of them. Returns early Wednesday morning gave Schneider a lead of about 5,000 over Holy, outside this county.

Holy carried two precincts in the county, the towns of Maine and Kaukauna, but his lead was almost negligible in both. Schneider amassed a total of 6,877 votes in the county, leading the entire field, while Holy polled less than one-third that many, finishing with 2,207.

URGENT MAILERS TO BUY STAMPS HERE

Can Improve Local Postal Facilities by Patronizing Local Postoffice

Many Appleton firms, unwittingly hinder the local Post office from giving the best type of service possible to the public, according to Postmaster W. H. Zuehlke. By giving their local circular mailing business to an outside firm, which buys the postage stamps for these circulars outside the city they unknowingly take receipts away from the local office, the postmaster says.

Every three months, according to Mr. Zuehlke, the postmaster must make out a report of receipts and an estimate of the amount of money needed to operate the postoffice for the next three months. This estimate is always out by the department at Washington to conform with receipts.

Many local firms sign contracts with firms outside the city for preparing and mailing circulars. For instance, an Appleton firm orders 10,000 letters from an Oshkosh printer, who supplies the circulars, in envelopes, addressed and stamped. The 10,000 circulars are sent to Appleton for distribution and the stamps are bought at Oshkosh. The Oshkosh office is credited with an additional $200 in receipts and the Appleton post office has the work of distributing the mail.

Can Improve Local Postal Facilities by Patronizing Local Postoffice

Many Appleton firms, unwittingly hinder the local Post office from giving the best type of service possible to the public, according to Postmaster W. H. Zuehlke. By giving their local circular mailing business to an outside firm, which buys the postage stamps for these circulars outside the city they unknowingly take receipts away from the local office, the postmaster says.

Every three months, according to Mr. Zuehlke, the postmaster must make out a report of receipts and an estimate of the amount of money needed to operate the postoffice for the next three months. This estimate is always out by the department at Washington to conform with receipts.

Many local firms sign contracts with firms outside the city for preparing and mailing circulars. For instance, an Appleton firm orders 10,000 letters from an Oshkosh printer, who supplies the circulars, in envelopes, addressed and stamped. The 10,000 circulars are sent to Appleton for distribution and the stamps are bought at Oshkosh. The Oshkosh office is credited with an additional $200 in receipts and the Appleton post office has the work of distributing the mail.

THE PRIMARY ELECTION

The primary election would seem to indicate that the La Follette succession is on the rocks, and that the Blaine machine has been scrapped. The result is a great victory for independent judgment and returning sanity on the part of Wisconsin's electorate: this despite Senator Lenroot's defeat by a small minority. The great race he made in the face of a powerfully organized machine, defamation, slander and misrepresentation is a more important tribute to the intelligence and integrity of the people than will appear at first blush. Six months ago he was counted out of the running, with no possible chance of election. Had the campaign continued a couple of weeks longer he probably would have beaten Blaine.

Approximately half the Republicans have swallowed Blaine propaganda, and propose to send to Washington a man who will be of utterly no value to the state in the nation's councils and in legislation. They have blindly nominated a candidate who can be of no help in securing the St. Lawrence seaway, the greatest economic necessity of Wisconsin and the Northwest. They have thrown away their interests in constructive farm and labor legislation. They have lost all effective contact with the federal government. They have not even voted for principle, for they do not know what principles Blaine represents. If he represents anything, the Blaine support reflects discontent, and reprisal against those upon whom the country depends for production, progress and prosperity. But there is this to be thankful for, that it is a rapidly diminishing force and promises to run itself out in due course. What has become of the land-slides and 200,000 majorities of the past? Clearly the people are tiring of the "Progress" and humbuggery of the Blaine species of government.

Mr. Blaine of course deserve to lose. There was nothing of solid worth back of his campaign or his professions. On none of his promises will he make good, while the methods employed to "put him over" would not stand the scrutiny of fair-minded men.

The campaign against Mr. Lenroot was indefensible and dishonorable. It was worse and more demoralizing, from an ethical or moral point of view, than the use of large sums of money to control election. No fair-minded man can approve the methods used by the Blaine machine. They may pass them by lightly, but they know when they do so they are shutting their eyes to a brand of politics that make only for bad government and betrayal of trust. If we had to be the beneficiary of crooked campaign measures, we would prefer it to be from the use of excessive expenditures rather than from moral fraud.

One of the factors that contributed to Mr. Lenroot's defeat was his unfortunate tactical mistake last year in abandoning Roy Wilcox for senator. We think Mr. Lenroot acted from a sincere desire to serve the interests of his party, but it was a blunder nevertheless which was openly resented by Mr. Wilcox's friends. Many Wilcox supporters who would normally have voted for Mr. Lenroot either voted for Blaine or refrained from voting. Probably this vote was enough to have elected Lenroot. The Post-Crescent said at the time this incident would cost Mr. Lenroot his place in the senate, and that apparently is what it has done.

There are, however, further explanations of Mr. Lenroot's defeat, one of which is the discouraging stay-at-home vote. This element, refusing to go to the polls "because it is no use", is responsible for more election misadventures than any other cause. The world court was a negligible influence, if anything it helped Mr. Lenroot. Teapot Dome, Newberryism and other similar rubbish cut no figure. The drift was strangely away from Blaine and toward Lenroot. The people were beginning to see an altogether bad record in its true light. A trifle more of this penetration and Mr. Blaine would have been actually repudiated. The people have traded a worthy and able representative, whose influence in national affairs was second to none at Washington, for a cheap but sinister politician, who will go into the senate without influence and will never acquire any as long as he is there. They will live to regret their decision.

Mr. Zimmerman's nomination is a crushing blow to the La Follette heritage. He has overwhelmed the Blaine-Ekern-Bob. Jr. combination, and left the youthful senator to make peace with him as best he can. Mr. Ekern goes back to Chicago to practice law. This much is a matter for general satisfaction, for nothing is more deplorable and demoralizing in state affairs than machine government. Wisconsin has suffered from it long enough, and while it has tentatively retained the arch-boss, it will awake in time to learn how it has suffered at his hands. State administration, with top-heavy expenditures, oppressive taxes and an army of do-nothing politicians on the public payroll, is in probably the worst condition it has ever been. Mr. Zimmerman has plenty to do to clean house, and smash the ring against which he made his successful protest. The people look to him to go through with the program on which he based his candidacy and which nominated him, viz., lowered taxes, economy, conservation and efficient administration, disassociated from machine rule. He faces an unusual opportunity. We trust he makes the most of it, and in a way that will command the admiration and confidence of right-minded citizens.

CHICAGO GRASPS AT STRAWS

Chicago's latest maneuver to perpetuate her water theft is the opening up of propaganda to make congress and the country believe that the dredging of the St. Clair river, which with the Detroit river connects Lake Huron and Lake Erie, is responsible for the lowering of lake levels. Aside from navigation requirements, there, dredging has been carried on by the Canadians, according to the Tribune, to remove gravel to be sold for construction work in Detroit. This latest "discovery" furnishes double enjoyment to the Tribune, both in shifting the blame for lowering the lake levels and in registering caustic jibes at our Canadian cousins.

Chicago has had some hard jolts recently in connection with its frantic efforts to save diversion from Lake Michigan water for power and sanitary purposes. It has been disclosed that a huge slush fund amounting to millions of dollars has been raised to corrupt the legislature of Illinois, down state politicians, etc. Vast sums have been expended in vicious and untruthful propaganda to influence public opinion. Auditors of the Chicago Association of Commerce have fastened this charge upon the Sanitary District, full details of which have been published in the press. The Tribune in commenting on it says: "Bribery is an ugly business always, but if it ever was justified from the point of view of the giver it was in this instance, when the choice lay between bribery and pestilence." So the Tribune is willing to countenance bribery and corruption to preserve Chicago's water steal! That is something new for a supposedly reputable newspaper.

To offset the reaction of disgust with which this attitude must necessarily affect the public, it springs the story about St. Clair river "diversion." It attempts to fasten some fourteen inches of lowered levels in Lake Huron to the dredging of the St. Clair river, thereby permitting a larger outflow into Lake Erie, the exact extent of which is altogether problematical and probably very much less than the Tribune "investigators" assert, but it still refuses to attach importance to the flow of some 10,000 cubic feet of water per second out of Lake Michigan into the drainage canal.

The inconsistency of this argument will not fail to impress both engineers and the public. The farther Chicago goes in its efforts to justify its water steal, the greater its difficulty becomes and the more awkward its contentions. Obviously the only way it can perpetuate this water theft is through corrupt politics. It is Chicago's natural method and there is much in favor of its efficacy in the present day state of government.

IT IS BETTER TO PLAY SAFE

A young woman who has charge of the physical education of a group of girls, but apparently has not had the proper training for her position, writes that smallpox has been prevalent in the vicinity and there has been some talk of having the girls vaccinated. Is vaccination worth while, she asks, or is it, as she believes, a humbug? She asks, of course she has no medical reasons for her belief but she "understands" that quite a number of doctors share her views.

A serious fault with the pioneer physical education program at present being established here and there about the country is that the school authorities arranging the program do not comprehend the value or importance of this part of a common education, and so they are prone to employ instructors who have not been properly trained. The school boards are inclined to look upon physical education very much as they generally look upon "physiology" and "hygiene," rather a farce to be carried along to please a few nuts in the community. That is the view the average politician-educator takes of these subjects. That is the explanation for the common practice of designating any old teacher who has some spare time as the "physiology" teacher—no matter at all if the teacher or hasn't the first notion of what physiology or hygiene means. It is all the same to him, and the taxpayers want to pay for it, let him have a good imitation—they never know the difference.

From the context of this young woman's query it seems that she is going to have something to say about the question of vaccinating the girls who are unfortunate enough to be under her incompetent charge. Certainly she did not learn in any reputable or recognized school, normal school or college that vaccination is a humbug. She derived that idea from bad reading—reading fake physical culture publications and other trashy or disreputable magazines—magazines which are circulated to carry off an opponent of compulsory vaccination. I believe this country is now sufficiently literate, or rather the population is, to understand plain language or even to read simple words. Let the state advise vaccination, for everybody and provide the vaccine for the purpose and give the best assurance it is possible to give that the vaccine is suitable for the purpose. Then let the people be vaccinated or not, as they prefer. Personally, I like to keep well vaccinated and to keep my loved ones well vaccinated. I advise every parent to let it that his baby is well vaccinated, best in the first six months of life. Of course there is a certain amount of risk involved in being vaccinated even under the best possible conditions and care. I prefer to take any such risk. Smallpox is a loathsome disease to have, even if one recovers from it. Pock marks are a sad badge of ignorance or neglect—an unpleasant stigma to carry through life.

This incompetent physical director or teacher—how did she get her job? Politics? Politics! Unfortunately that's the way a great many teachers get their jobs. Speed the day when even the physical education teacher will be expected to have some schooling to fit her for the responsibilities she takes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Jodin for Dan Druff

I have "Ben Told" that I. O. Dine is effective for Dan Druff. Is this true? If so, should the iodine be applied in full strength, to the whole scalp at one time? How often should it be applied? (B. V. M.)

Answer—Some victims of dandruff and falling hair report that one painting of the entire scalp (avoiding the hair as much as possible) with ordinary uncture of Iodin has proved of marked benefit. I do not advise this, however. It is a rather formidable procedure which had better be entrusted to the individual's physician.

Two Floors of Good Things To Wear

Adventures In The Library

By ARNOLD MULDER

CORRECTING THE LINCOLN MYTH

Probably millions of people would deny that there is a Lincoln myth, and hence they would deny that it is necessary to correct it. They would argue that the Lincoln we know in popular tradition is the real Lincoln, and that it is mere muckraking to call to mind the other Lincoln who is not known to today's public. Such people resent having their mental picture of Lincoln changed in the smallest degree, no matter how much proof can be brought. They charge that anyone who says, for instance, that Lincoln frequently told fable stories that could not be told in the presence of women is dealing in literary garbage and should be suppressed, such writers, they hold, are eager to find something that is derogatory to Lincoln and eager to overlook the good in him.

Anyone who makes a charge of that kind should read Carl Sandburg's "Abraham Lincoln: The Prairie Years." The chances are they will find much in the book they will not like but when they have read it they cannot very well hold to the idea that Sandburg is muckraking Lincoln for the sake of the muckraking. I doubt if there is anyone who has ever written a life of Lincoln who has been a more ardent worshipper of him. But Sandburg is one of those rare persons who cannot worship a myth; what he worships must be real, faults and sins and blemishes and all. And so he has built up a Lincoln that includes the whole story.

The chances are that the fastidious reader is shocked again and again, especially as to the picture of Lincoln as a story teller. He was one of the best story tellers of his generations and it was said of him that "he could make a cat laugh." And this talent betrayed him frequently into telling stories that could not be printed. Repeatedly Sandburg quotes friends and enemies, noted men and obscure men, to the effect that during such and such an interview Lincoln indulged in this habit, and that not whether he was still an irresponsible youth but after he had been nominated for the presidency.

But why call attention to this, the worshipper of the Lincoln myth asks. And there would be no excuse for that were all that was said or if that were given emphasis. But it is not only one element in a highly complex picture. Its inclusion gives a sense of a much more complex and mysterious character than the character made familiar by the Lincoln myth. Lincoln was a strange bundle of contradictions and for 60 years people all over the world have been picking out the qualities they liked and have built up out of them their idea of Lincoln, ignoring all the qualities they did not like. What Sandburg has aimed to do is to restore the Lincoln as he actually lived upon the earth.

There is Lincoln as statesman for instance. You often hear orators say that Lincoln was a great statesman and that the public men of today are mere politicians in comparison. It is absolutely true that Lincoln was a great statesman, but it is false to say that he was the shrewdest politician of his generation. And he used the methods of the politician. He used political tricks that might make a Tammany boss green with envy. They were usually honest tricks but so are many of the political tricks of today that give the undesirable connotation to the word "politician." The addition of Lincoln as a shrewd practical politician makes Lincoln much more human, while it does not in the least detract from his statesman ship.

SELDOM ATTEND CHURCH
And then also consider Lincoln and religion. Public speakers and writers often give the impression that Lincoln, if he lived today, must certainly have agreed with their particular brand of religion. But the fact is that, at least until he became president, he paid very little attention to organized religion. He almost never went to church and Sandburg quotes him as saying that most sermons made him tired. But that is not the same as saying that he was not religious, but it was not the type of religion that those who claim him for their own today would recognize.

The Sandburg picture does not at all detract from the stature of Lincoln's greatness. It adds to it. The honest method of telling everything results in making the man seem a greater miracle. That is the book's complete justification.

ONLY HALF OF CITY'S VOTERS
WENT TO POLLSVote in Primary Was Much
Lighter Than in Last City
Election

Kaukauna—Only approximately one half as many votes were cast in this city in Tuesday's primary as were cast in the last spring election. In the third ward where there are between seven and eight hundred voters only 401 voted. The same was true in the first and second wards which have better than six hundred voters each. Only 327 votes were cast in each of these wards. There were 286 votes cast in the fourth precinct which is the Fourth and Fifth wards combined. Where nearly 3,000 citizens voted in the city election only 1,351 voters did their duty Tuesday. This also falls way below the 1924 primary.

Zimmerman and Ekern staged a tight race in the city for governor the latter nosing out the former by only fourteen votes. Kaukauna was one of the few places in which Ekern led Zimmerman. Ekern carried every ward in the city by slight margins except the second ward which he lost by 36 votes. Zimmerman got 554 in the city and Ekern polled 568.

Blaine had overwhelmingly large margins over Lenroot in every precinct in the city. He carried the Fifth ward alone by 140 ballots. His total was 789 and Lenroot's was 383 while Kelly ran a poor third with 32, fourteen of which he got in the third.

Zuehlke also carried every ward in the city in his run for sheriff. He polled 603 to Schwartz's 472 while Wankner only got 75. Zuehlke had his greatest majority in the second precinct where he got 152 to his opponent's 107.

Miss Marie Ziegenhagen carried the city for county treasurer by 95 votes, polling 579 votes while Jansen, her nearest opponent only got 484. Glasser ran away behind with 71 votes. Assemblyman Miller carried all of the precincts in the city with the exception of the fourth which he lost to Sayers 46 to 24. His total was 742 while Sayers only got 165.

Huber carried every ward for Lieutenant-governor. Schneider swamped Holly 885 to 247 in the race for congressman from the Ninth district. Schneider carried every precinct in the city.

DAKOTA WOMAN NAMED

Miss Jeanette Nantville of Sheboygan was to come to Kaukauna Wednesday to look over the public speaking position vacant in here. She graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1924 with a B. A. degree and took two years of graduate work in public speaking at the Emerson School of Expression at Boston, Mass.

Superintendent James F. Cavanaugh reported to the board that everything pertaining to the opening of school was progressing satisfactorily. Three hundred and sixteen students had enrolled in the high school up until Tuesday evening. The largest freshman class ever at the Kaukauna High school enrolled this year. There are 120 freshmen.

COUNCIL ENGAGES
LADYSMITH GIRL
AS CITY NURSEOrders City Attorney to Prepare Traffic Regulating Ordinance

Kaukauna—Miss Marie Hayes of Ladysmith, present county health nurse of Rusk county, was selected by the city council at its regular meeting Tuesday evening for the position of city nurse. She will begin her duties as soon as possible and will receive $1,500 per year and the use of one of the city cars.

A petition for an arc light on the corner of Draper-st and Black-st. was referred to the utilities committee. Martin Siebers was awarded the contract for building approximately 500 feet of sidewalks in the city. His bid was 90 cents per lineal foot of walk, five feet wide and four inches thick. Joseph Lefevre, city attorney was instructed to prepare an ordinance regulating all tractor traffic over all of the city's highways and bridges.

F. Wettengel, Appleton, owner of Eden park on the south side, offered the tract of land to the city for park purposes. The offer was referred to the committee on parks and playgrounds. Mrs. M. Black asked the council for permission to plot 35 feet on her land fronting on Wisconsin-ave and going straight through for the same width to Draper-st. The land is in the so-called Riverside Park subdivision. The council instructed the city attorney to draw up an ordinance.

Fifth ward supervisor F. Reichel told the council that an attempt was being made by the county to pave the road up Beauclieu hill to Tenth-st. and all of that street to the Holland-town road.

The mayor, city clerk and city engineer were requested to attend the meeting in the near future on the proposed valley sewerage disposal plant. The council adjourned until Friday, Sept. 17.

STUARTMEN LOSE
TO CLINTONVILLEGame Is Marked by Ragged
Playing on Wet and Muddy
Field

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—On Sunday afternoon at the local base ball diamond was staged an innovation of the popular sport known as "base ball." Clintonville played New London through nine innings of rain. At times the ball was lost in the mud which covered the infield, but the Clintonville players were the best gymnasts and won, 6-3. Both pitchers seemed to be heaving, the shot-put instead of a baseball, and for the same reason the batters couldn't hit the ball out of the infield. Errors were frequent and the score gives no real indication as to which team was the best.

In the seventh inning Laash uncorked a wild heave ten feet over the catcher's head. He gave up the struggle and Wah finished the game.

On Labor day the team went to Weyauwega and met the Waupaca nine there. Doc Sutcliffe outpitched Roman, the Waupaca hurler, but if he could have fielded all of the positions New London would have won 1-0. As it was Waupaca won without any effort, 6-0.

The absence of Sterns, Much, Wing and Wotrath made itself felt in the resulting score. The substitutes taking their places had a hard time to get batted balls and hold them once they did get them.

ZWICK SENDS ANOTHER
FOE DOWN FOR COUNT

Kaukauna—Another prominent bantamweight boxer was crushed under the relentless hammering of Phil Zwick. Kaukauna's bantam, Monday afternoon at Canton, O. when Phil Sousa of New York was knocked out by the local lad in the third round of a scheduled 10 round bout. Zwick felled Sousa three times before finally putting the sleep producer over. There was plenty of action in the scrap, according to ringside reports of the fight.

This makes Zwick's eighteenth straight win since leaving Kaukauna a year ago.

HALF OF VOTERS
APPEAR AT POLLSLenroot Carries City by Almost 100 Votes; Blaine
Wins in Town

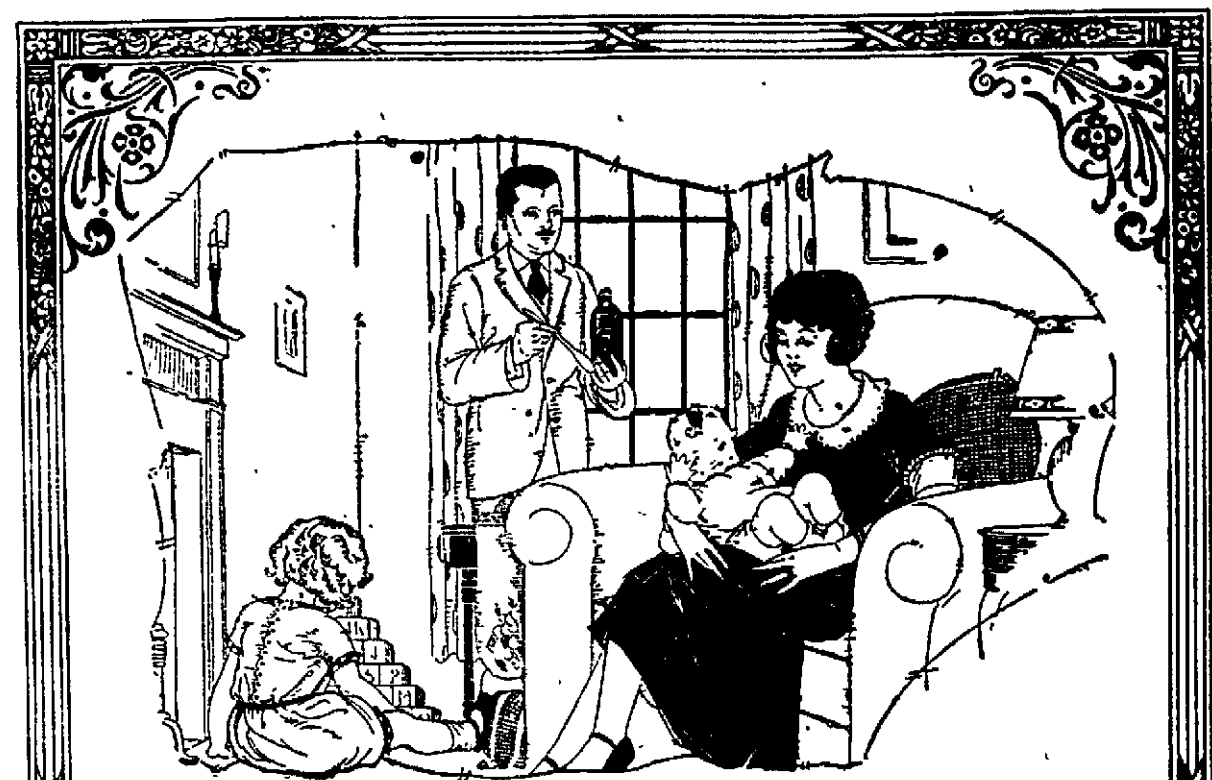

New London—The final outburst of oratory being over and the primary campaign, with its bitter warfare and the undercurrent of excitement, has passed into the annals of history. The vote from New London was not full the strength as only about half of the city's voting populace turned out to the polls. Women evinced fully as much interest and indicated equal intelligence as men in voting, election officials reported.

Senator Irvine Lenroot scored a triumph in this district over his opponent, John J. Blaine, Lenroot having 375 votes to Blaine's 280. Liberty township scored ten in Blaine's favor while the township of Matteson voted for Blaine to the last man, not a single vote being cast for any of the other candidates. The race for district attorney ran close, Smith getting 298 to Morris' 250. Running in the race for county sheriff with five other competitors, like Poepeke, lone candidate from New London and this section of the county, received 516 votes from his own city. Hanson, his opponent came in second with 31 votes from this community.

Postmarks date back over two centuries, the first provincial specimen being marked "Warrington," on a letter dated 1702, long before adhesive stamps came into use.

What Makes Home Happy?

FOUR walls can make a house, but it takes a woman to make a home.

The woman who prepares nourishing and attractive meals, does her housework without grumbling, raises a family of healthy boys and girls and still finds time to be a pal to her husband and a friend to her neighbors, is accomplishing the biggest job in the world. Homes like hers—little havens of peace and love—are the bulwark of the nation.

To be a successful homemaker a woman must guard her health. When the mother is not well the home is upset. Women everywhere are learning through their own personal experiences, as Mrs. Riessinger did, the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. RIESSINGER was in poor health after the birth of her first baby. She weighed only 98 pounds. One day a neighbor told her of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she decided to try it. "After taking four bottles," she writes, "I weigh 116 pounds. It has just done wonders for me and I can do my housework without one bit of trouble." Her address is Mrs. M. RIESSINGER, 10004 Nelson Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

CYCLIST HURT IN COLLISION WITH AUTOMOBILE

William Doerfler in Precarious Condition After Accident

William Doerfler, 35, 346 W. Wisconsin-st., is at St. Elizabeth's hospital suffering from a possible fractured skull and other injuries received when he collided with an automobile near the corner of College-ave. and Superior-st., at 4:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

The injured man, according to the story witnesses told police, was about to make a turn in the street on College-ave. about 25 feet beyond the intersection when he pedaled his bicycle into the path of a car driven by Henry Samson, 514 E. Minor-st.

Doerfler was going east on College-ave. and the automobile was approaching toward the west, police reports indicate.

He was thrown onto the hood of the Samson machine and into the windshield and then rebounded to the street, witnesses said. An ambulance was called and Mr. Doerfler was removed to the hospital.

The bicyclist was on the left side of the roadway when the accident occurred, police said.

TWO MORE CANDIDATES FILE EXPENSE ACCOUNTS

Miss Marie Ziegenhagen, county treasurer, spent $12.60 on campaign expenses prior to the primary, according to her account filed with County Clerk John E. Hantschel. Fred A. Mueller, candidate for assembly, filed an expense document showing $30 spent. The total pre-primary cost for the entire county ticket ran well under $1,000.

FIRST DISTRICT SENDS NEW MAN TO LEGISLATURE

Oscar J. Schmiede Wins Nomination from Fred A. Mueller.

Outgaming-co voted to change one of its representatives in the state legislature in Tuesday's primary when the incumbent assemblyman, Fred A. Mueller, succumbed to the torpedo attack of Oscar Schmiede. The latter piled such a big lead in the city of Appleton that he swamped Mueller's big guns in the rural districts and carried off the nomination by about 360 votes. Schmiede was about 400 votes behind in the rural precincts of the district but he stepped off to a 850 lead in the city and walked off with the nomination, 2,392 to 2,031. C. A. Kaufman, also of Appleton, placed third with 1,294 votes of which 1,087 were cast in the city.

The second assembly district clung to Anton M. Miller by about 1,600 votes, giving him 2,325 while James M. Sayers polled an even 700. Sayers carried only two precincts in his district.

Integrity of Purpose

The far-reaching importance of the cracking processes discovered and developed by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is emphasized in a recent information circular published by the United States Bureau of Mines.

"According to the best information available, about 26% of the gasoline output of the refineries for 1925 was produced from heavier oils by cracking. This represents a production of approximately 2,824,000,000 gallons of gasoline by the use of cracking processes."

A brief review of recent history will reveal the significance of this colossal achievement.

As far back as 1913 when there were only one and a quarter million automobiles in the country, men who were well informed began to worry about the supply of crude oil.

With a rapid increase in the number of automobiles would the available crude oil be sufficient to produce an adequate amount of gasoline?

That was the question which experts were asking. The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) answered it by discovering and developing its famous processes for cracking gasoline. For in the research laboratories of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) where the patient and tireless work of scientists goes on day after day, the first commercially successful cracking process was discovered.

This new method was a spectacular discovery for it stretched the supply of crude, producing double the yield of gasoline obtained by the old methods.

The cracking processes belonged to the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) by right of discovery and might have been kept for its exclusive use.

Such a practice, however, would have been contrary to the established policies of this Company, and such procedure would have been opposed to the economic good of the people of the Middle West and therefore was not to be considered by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

Without a widespread use of the new cracking processes to stretch the supply of crude, refineries would have been unable to meet the growing demand for gasoline and prices would have soared.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) from the beginning has held the interest of the people whom it serves first, and in a consistent spirit of service the Company leased these processes to competitors, that they, too, might better aid in meeting the demand for gasoline.

The immediate result of this action was a sufficient output of gasoline at continued low prices.

Today the fact that fuel for nearly 21,000,000 automotive vehicles is forthcoming at a low and equitable price is due in large measure to the processes discovered by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

The action of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) in passing on these valuable processes to competitors is but one practical evidence of the sincerity and earnestness with which the Company endeavors to serve the thirty million people of the Middle West.

The automobile was struck in the rear right fender. The car was badly wrecked. The flagman at the crossing stated that he stood in the center of the road as usual and gave the warning to the approaching car. This was not needed, he said and Austin came on directly in the path of the approaching train. His condition is thought to be serious.

VANITY CASE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MRS. PRENTISS sees mysterious lights in the Heath household next door one night, and the next day Harbor Gardens, Long Island, is agog with the murder of MYRA HEATH and the disappearance of her husband, FERRY. House guests of the Heaths are LAWRENCE INMAN, heir to Myra's fortune, and BUNNY MOORE, beautiful, vivacious, to whom suspicion points because of her strange actions.

Myra Heath never used rouge, never wore colors, yet when her body was found she was heavily rouged. She had a mania for collecting glass, and it was a rare old bottle from her collection that the murderer used to kill her. Candles were burning at her head and feet; nearby was a card marked, "The Work of Perry Heath."

The strange thing about Heath's disappearance is that the windows and doors were locked on the inside the night before and were found that way in the morning. Finger prints of Bunny Moore and Inman were found on the bottle.

At the Country Club the murder is discussed by SAM ANDERSON, Heath's rival for the club presidency; AL CUNNINGHAM, who is trying to solve the crime, and others. TODD HUNTER BUCK, nephew of Mrs. Prentiss and in love with Bunny, believes Heath also may have been murdered.

Bunny is amazed to get a phone call from Heath. He calls her again, saying Inman is guilty. Bunny faints under a grilling by DETECTIVE MOTT. Inman confesses to Buck that he saw Bunny ascending the stairs after the murder, and Mott questions all the servants. Katie, a maid, tells of seeing a man leaving the grounds the night of the murder.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXI

"Now look here, Mr. Detective," said Herrick who had been sitting still, gloomily listening. "I've got a word to say about that. I looked up everything when I went upstairs at shortly after eleven-thirty. The whole family was up in their rooms then. Now, my room it in the third story front, which isn't a regular story. This here house being a bungalow. But it's a loft, like, and comfortable enough. Any way, that's where I sleep, and it's right over the front door. My window was open, and if anybody had gone in or out of that front door, I'd have heard them. That door wasn't opened after I locked it that night, till I opened it the next morning. I know, because the chain bolt is out of order, and I plugged a little stick in it. Nobody would do it exactly like I did, and anyway, I just know that door wasn't opened after I locked it up."

"Very well, Herrick, but maybe Miss Moore let Mr. Heath out by a window."

"I'd heard it if she had. I tell you, sir, I'm a light sleeper, and I've always got my ears open for burglars, and I tell you there couldn't have been a door or window open in this house that night, 'thout I heard it."

"Did you hear Emma open the door for Katie?"

"Course I did! Herrick looked contemptuous. "That Emma, she thinks she's so quiet! She goes downstairs like a hod carrier, and she opens that creak door so careful, that she takes about ten minutes to do it! Last night, I stuck a little, and she had to jerk it open—ain't that so?"

"Yes," and the girl looked her astonishment.

"Yes, it's so. And I was thinkin' I'd do it next day, and then what happened put it clear out of my mind."

"How about the studio French windows? Couldn't a man leave the house that way?"

"They all squeak, every one of them," Herrick answered. "I've been meaning to tell them fixed, but I just haven't. But they squeak somethin' awful! If you don't believe that, Mr. Detective, you just try them."

"Then, Herrick," Mott turned on him, "how did Mr. Heath get out? Emma heard him talking after twelve, that was after you locked up, and yet he was gone in the morning. How did he get out?"

"That's what's botherin' me, sir," and Herrick looked awestruck. "I say, how could he get out. The cellarway was locked inside. Every door and window was fastened in the morning when I came downstairs. I'd 'a' heard any of 'em if they was opened in the night. I don't know sir, how he did get out."

"Do you think the man Jimmy Lo-max saw was Mr. Heath?"

"I don't think so, no, sir. 'Cause why, how could it be, Mr. Heath, he couldn't get out, sir."

"Then he is in the house yet?"

"I think so, sir."

"Why, Herrick, what do you mean?"

"I mean, sir, that the brute as done for Mrs. Heath done for him, too, sir, and hid his body somewhere."

"Absurd, my man! That couldn't be."

"All right, sir, but you asked me what I thought."

Having gained all he could from the servants, and giving no heed at all to Herrick's wild surmise, Mott, after further injunctions not to babble, went away.

As he walked around the house, he saw Inman from the front terrace, and stopped to speak to him.

"I say," Mott began, "do you think Perry Heath could have been murdered by the assassin of his wife, and his body concealed in the house?"

"Good Lord! What an idea!" Larry stared at him.

"Yes, it sounds absurd. I know. But many details of this mysterious case are absurd. I say, do you think it could be possible?"

"I certainly do not. But it is surely question easily answered. Why not search the house. There are not many hiding places in it that would serve such a purpose."

"Look here, Mr. Inman," Mott stalked along by the other's side, as they patrolled the long terrace, "who killed your cousin?"

"That's the question that's tormenting me to death!" Larry exclaimed so emphatically, that Mott more than half believed him.

"Is it tormenting you because you don't know the answer or because you do?" he said, shrewdly.

"Just what do you mean by that?" Inman stopped and stared at him.

"I mean, do you suspect somebody whom you do not want to suspect? Are your convictions forced to a conclusion that you cannot bear to accept? In a word, do you feel you must suspect Miss Moore, though you hate to do so?"

The other glared at him.

"No," he said, "I do not suspect Miss Moore, and any one who does must be out of his mind! It's too absurd!"

"Now don't go on to say that that sweet young thing couldn't commit a crime! Crimes have been committed by young women, by girls, even before this day of the wicked and degenerate flapper."

"I suppose, Mr. Mott, your position and your calling give you a right to voice such monstrous beliefs, but I can't believe you really mean them. I think you are putting it to me, to see what I will say to it. Well, sir, I say this. Miss Moore could no more have killed Mrs. Heath than I could myself. And I think your accusation of her is to get me to deny it, and stand up for her, and then you will accuse me, as the only other possibility. Why do you leave Perry Heath out of your reckoning?"

"First, because I cannot believe he could be the criminal and place that card in evidence as a clue to his guilt. Another could do it, but not the criminal, himself. Had Heath committed that crime, he would have left a false clue that would have pointed to yourself or to some other person, but not to his own name."

"This doesn't seem to be one of those cases that have the reputation clues—initialed handkerchiefs, broken cuff links, special sort of tobacco ash—"

"Footprints, one of a pair of pistols, library table paper cutter, but ten torn from assailant's coat,—no Mr. Inman, none of the hackneyed clues are present, except—finger prints. You know of those important ones on the bottle,—the weapon. How do you explain those?"

"I daresay they are easy, of explanation. Both Miss Moore and myself fingered that bottle when Mrs. Heath was showing it to us."

"Yes, and after that, Mrs. Heath polished it clean with her delicate handkerchief, leaving no marks on it of any sort."

"Oh, I don't know. We must have picked it up again, Miss Moore and I, after that. You know how idly, even unconsciously one picks up objects that are lying about."

"Yes, but there are only the prints of you two people, and Miss Moore's are beneath yours. She grasped it first."

"Indeed," said Larry Inman, and turned away with a yawn.

REPORT FOUR CASES OF WHOOPING COUGH HERE

A warning that whooping cough is making its regular fall appearance in the city was issued Tuesday by Theodor Sanders, deputy health officer. He urged that parents keep their children as near home as possible, pointing out that association with children from strange homes usually results in the spread of contagious diseases.

Four cases of whooping cough, the only contagious diseases existing in Appleton at the present time, are recorded by the health department. This is one more than was reported at the corresponding time last year, according to Mr. Sanders.

Homes in which a child or other member of the family has the disease must be placarded for six weeks. Other children in the family, provided they were perfectly well, may attend school, but no neighboring children are permitted on the premises of the placarded home.

ROADS JAMMED AS CARS GO HOME

Rainy Weather Starts Trek to South Ahead of Schedule

Rains in the northern part of the state and schools opening universally Tuesday started a steady flow of tourist vacationists through Appleton on Sunday which apparently reached its peak during the hours between 10 o'clock in morning and 8 o'clock at night.

Crowds were especially noticeable in restaurants where the S. R. O. sign went up early in the day.

The cooler weather accompanied by drizzles, downpours and near cloud-bursts, according to locality, also played its part in determining for weekend parties that time had arrived to cluck to the fillyer and start it on its homeward journey.

With the exception of rare instances where motorists had wandered far afield from the paved and gravelled highways the precipitation was not sufficient to cause other than annoyance that the double holiday was more or less spoiled and that it was found advisable to commence the homeward trek from 24 to 48 hours ahead of schedule.

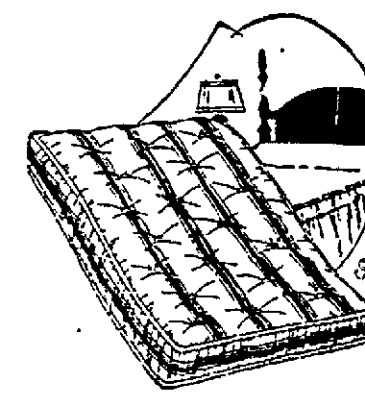

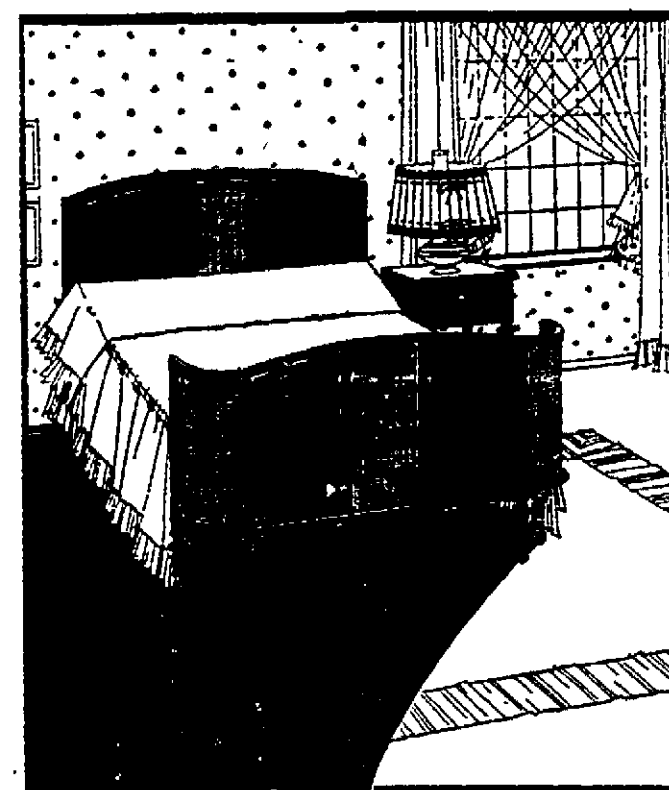

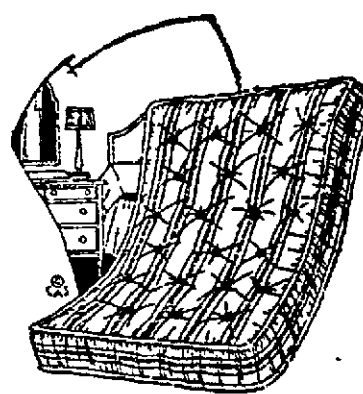

W. J. Frawley, will play in the annual golf tournament of Wisconsin doctors on the Maple Bluff Country club course at Madison on Tuesday, Sept. 14. The tourney precedes the scientific session of the Wisconsin State Medical society. Approximately 200 players are expected to compete for the prizes, which include the President's cup for low gross score, and the Secretary's cup for low net score.

IRVING ZUELLIG

Her Own Way. A STORY OF A GIRL OF TODAY

A MISTAKE OF THE LAW

"Say, young lady," said the officer as his grip tightened upon my shoulder. "You don't expect me to believe all of this pipe dream do you?" "I certainly do. I wish you would take me to the station. I'm afraid to go alone."

"All right, I just will run you in."

The policeman pulled me after him to the alarm box and sent in a call.

In a few minutes a patrol wagon came clattering up and I was hustled in. I was dragged unceremoniously into the station house, and the officer told his story, which was that I had come sneaking out of the park after it was closed. I had tried to pass him, but when he would not have it, I had the nerve to tell him that I had been choked and robbed. "I think she had been having a necking party."

The man at the desk, who looked at me suspiciously, and then bent toward me.

"What is the matter with your neck?"

"I don't know what is the matter with it."

"It is discolored."

I put up my hand to my throat. It was very sore to my touch.

"I guess that is where the man choked me. That was the kind of a necking party I had in your old park."

The desk sergeant looked at the officer who had brought me in.

"I'll take charge of this case," he said.

When the man left, I began to cry.

"Don't do that," said the desk sergeant. "Sit down here and tell me your story. But first haven't you some friends to notify? Won't they be looking for you?"

"Yes," I said, rather hysterically. "I have lots of friends who are probably looking for me by now. Telephone to South 1874 and ask for Mamie Riley. She will answer if she is not out looking for me. I was to be back at six o'clock to prepare to go out to dinner with some friends."

"Who were these friends?" asked the man. "You might be calling them up, too. They probably will be worried."

Remembering that the name of Hathaway had such an electrical effect upon every one to whom I had mentioned it, I answered quickly, Miss Riley at whom mother's house I have been rooming and myself were going out to dinner with Jerry Hathaway, Jr., and his friend, James Costello.

"I know Jerry Hathaway," said the desk sergeant smiling. "He is the son of an immensely rich Hathaway who owns a string of restaurants all over the country. You had better notify him immediately." He thrust the receiver of the telephone into my hands.

"I think if you don't mind," I said, "I will telephone Mamie first. Perhaps Mr. Hathaway will still be there."

I called the number.

JERRY TO THE RESCUE

It seemed to me that the ball at the other end of the phone had hardly begun to jingle before I heard Mamie's voice. Without giving me a chance to say anything she exclaimed:

"Judy, is it you? Where are you? What has happened?"

"Yes, it's me," I said with no regard for grammar.

I heard a commotion at the other end of the wire. Mamie was sobbing.

"Here, let me talk to her," said a man's voice. It did not sound like any voice I ever heard even when it asked, "Judy where are you?"

"At the police station."

"What?"

"The station nearest Lincoln Park."

The receiver was evidently dropped again, and another masculine voice spoke. "Judy, this is Jimmie Costello. Can't you speak? Are you hurt? What did you tell Jerry that sent him out here on the run?"

"I told him I was in the police station nearest Lincoln Park."

"Good Lord! Well, he will be there in a few minutes, if he is not run in for breaking the speed law. Are you hurt, or did you lose your way or anything?"

"I was choked almost to death."

The receiver was dropped again, and I couldn't get anyone on the phone again.

I looked inquiringly at the officer at the desk.

"Don't worry," he said, reassuringly. "They have just dropped the phone and started over for you."

This I found to be true, for at the moment the door was swung open with a bang and Jerry Hathaway rushed in, bareheaded and disheveled.

Distractedly he looked about for a second, until his eyes lighted on me.

"Judy, Judy!" he cried. "I thought I had lost you." He had me in his arms before he had finished the sentence, and was turning to take me out of the station when the officer said, "One moment, Mr. Hathaway."

"What do you want?" was Jerry's belligerent question.

"I want to find the miscreants who almost choked the young lady in your arms to death."

JUDY DECLARES JERRY A STRANGER

I hastily disengaged myself from Jerry's arms and I felt my face grow red as I said: "Please let me go home, Mr. Officer. I am just about all in."

Tomorrow I will come back if you wish and tell you all about the jinx that has been following me ever since I came to this fair city of yours."

"Now I want to go home. If you will let me go, I am sure Mr. Hathaway will come over and tell you all about it in the morning."

"My dear young lady, you don't have to tell me anything. Personally I would like to have you prefer some charges against a man or men unknown who came near killing you, but that is up to you. I can't keep you from going to your home, young lady, if I wanted to. But I really would like some information whereby I could jug those men."

"Did they steal anything from you?"

"Yes, they, or rather he, for I think there was but one man, took from me my purse."

"How much money was there in it?"

"A little over twenty-five dollars which I owe to Mrs. Riley for my room rent. The purse itself, however, is probably worth—"

"Officer, I gave the purse to Miss Dean this morning and it cost two hundred and fifty dollars. It was the finest one I could buy. I gave it to her in compensation for the insults she received in my father's restaurant when a purse of hers was taken containing two hundred and fifty dollars."

"It is a long story, officer, and I haven't time to tell it to you now," continued Jerry. "Besides I think Miss Dean should be taken home and put to bed. I will return in the morning and answer any question you may put to me, for I am just as anxious to have that man found and punished as you are."

"The officer looked both curious and disgusted."

"Don't worry," said Jerry, "because I haven't time to tell you all that led up to this attack, but I will tell it all to you in the morning. It may have some bearing on the case."

"The sooner we get the story, Mr. Hathaway, the easier it will be to find the thief."

"All right," said Jerry as he rushed me out to his roadster.

"Judy," he said the moment we on our way to Mamie's: "I want you to marry me tomorrow morning. It is not safe to leave you out in the cold any other moment without someone to take care of you."

"Don't be in such a hurry," I said happily, for I was beginning to like my impetuous lover very much. "You know we are almost strangers."

50 GRIDDEERS REPORT FOR 1ST ORANGE PRACTICE

Six Lettermen, Large Flock Of 1925 Reserves, Junior High Stars Out

Size of Green Squad Gives Promise of Developing Fair Conference Crew

With a squad of approximately 50 boys, including six lettermen, reporting for the opening practice of the season Tuesday afternoon at the old Lawrence field and with many others waiting for full equipment before reporting, Coaches Joseph Shields and Leland DeFoe, started candidates for the 1926 Appleton grid squad on their way. Though the afternoon was hot the boys got in several hard hits before they called it a day.

The six lettermen in suits were Norbert Pfeifferle and Kenneth Laird, ends; Reuben Getschow, tackle; Lawrence Witzke, center; Johnston and Orville Strutz, halfbacks. A seventh, Al Liethen, will be out Wednesday or Thursday. Reserves of last year and a number of gold men from the 1925 junior high crews, give the new Orange mentors prospects for a fair team. With Shawano high scheduled to open the season here on Sept. 25, the coaches have less than three weeks to work in a team. The first skull practice was held Tuesday evening at the high school.

Reserves of 1925 who were in suits were Bowly, Hartung, Kruse, Holtermann and Gelbke. Gelbke played a regular half the latter part of last year and is classed with the lettermen. Kruse and Holtermann saw service in several games in the line. Bowly is a quarterback candidate while Hartung is a husky lineman. Liethen is said to be greatly improved in his passing over last year and a better lineman through the efforts of Jim Brader, old Badger star who worked with him at Camp Sheridan.

Among the newcomers, Murphy, husky tackle; Kunitz, a member of the second team in basketball last year; Rankin, 1925 junior high center; and Schaefer, 1925 Wilson backfielder, loom up as first team possibilities with coaching. Al Cookson, who was out to practice one night last year before breaking a collarbone, and Heinritz, a 1925 lineman the early part of the season, are other men who look good.

Development of another end, two tackles, a pair of guards and a quarterback are the hard problems, though the material out seems to promise the filling of the guard and tackle jobs. Quarterback, the weak spot of the 1925 squad, has a number of good men hot on its trail this year including Bowly, Steinberg, star Orange cager, Di- one of the 1925 Wilson squad, and others.

The first night's practice consisted of punting, passing and running drills with emphasis on handling the pigskin.

CARDS CLIMB TO FIVE GAME LEAD

Beat Bucs Again as Cubs Trim Reds; Yanks Increase Lead to 7 Games

St. Louis fans Wednesday looked eagerly towards a possible east-west series since the Cardinals were leading Cincinnati in the National League by two games and Pittsburgh by four and a half.

Cincinnati fell Tuesday, 8 to 5, while the Cards were pounding Pittsburgh, 5 to 0. It was a blow to the Reds; Cincinnati must face the Pirates again and the Cubs when St. Louis has departed to the comparative quiet of the Boston Braves ball yard.

The Cardinals will close the season at Cincinnati Sept. 26 after an eastern tour. The Cards have 16 more games to play and Cincinnati 20.

Lefty Bill Sherdel was the guiding genius for the Cardinals Tuesday. He permitted but one man to reach the third base. With Douthett and Harty hitting opportunely the issue was never in doubt. Four errors behind Carl Mays proved the undoing of Cincinnati. Rogers Hornsby is visiting Bonsettter Reese for an old injury to his spine, but expects to play in Boston Friday.

The New York Giants, with Captain Frisch back in the lineup won and lost at Boston. The Braves dropped back into the cellar when the first game went against them 7 to 2. They won the second game, 7 to 5, but failed to get out as Philadelphia beat Brooklyn, 8 to 0.

The Yankees decreased the slight doubt as to the winner of the American League pennant by running their lead over Cleveland to seven full games. They had no trouble squashing Boston, 4 to 2, for the Red Sox 17th straight loss while the Indians bowed before St. Louis 8 to 3.

The margin of the Yankees is now so wide that if they win nine of the nineteen games remaining Cleveland must win 17 to get the pennant. Chicago won the last game of the season total in the series at fourteen victories and eight losses.

ORIOLES MAY FINISH IN FOURTH POSITION

Baltimore, winner of the International League flag seven straight seasons, not only looks to be out of the running now, but will do well to finish better than fourth. Buffalo has been coming strong of late and stands

LOCKS PULLS UP ON FREEDOM IN BALL LOOP RACE

Triple Tie for Intercounty League Flag Likely as Top Rivals Clash

STANDINGS	W.	L.	Pct.
Freedom	8	5	.615
Combined Locks	9	6	.600
Wrightstown	8	6	.571
DePere	8	6	.571
Little Chute	9	9	.500
Onida	4	11	.267

SUNDAY GAMES
Combined Locks 9, Onida 8. (7 innings)
Wrightstown 1, Little Chute 0. (12 innings)
Freedom-DePere (postponed)

POSTPONED GAMES
Sept. 12—DePere at Freedom.
Sept. 13—Freedom at Wrightstown.

With Freedom, the loop leader, and DePere, a second-place squad, idle on Sunday, three teams pulled up within a half game of first place in the Intercounty League as the regular season ended. Two more games both involving Freedom, the leader, and a pair of second-place teams are on the card and these will decide the bunting for 1926.

While Freedom and DePere, tied for second place, were idle Combined Locks and Wrightstown, the other contenders for the flag pulled into the race by victories over the tail-enders. The Locksmen squeezed out a hard 9-8 win over the cellar Onida Indians in a game called in the seventh by rain. Meanwhile the fourth-place Wrightstown crew had a hard time staying in the title race in a game with Little Chute, just below it is the percentage column. Neither team scored for eleven frames of wet baseball but in the twelfth the Wrightstown boys managed to squeeze in the winning tally while the Chuters again went scoreless.

The games shoved Combined Locks into second place ahead of the idle DePere, men and moved Wrightstown up to third-place tie with that crew. The Locks squad is less than a half-game from the top and the DePere and Wrightstown ballers are just a half-game away. Stageman, Marty Lamers and Dix worked for the Locks with Swamp and Skeneandore for Onida. Kussow and Kussow formed the Wrightstown battery with Vandersteen and Brockhouse for Little Chute.

Sunday Freedom and DePere clash at Freedom in the first crucial tilt. A Freedom win puts DePere out of the running and moves the winners a half-game from the Locksmen and a full tilt from Wrightstown. Then Freedom meets Wrightstown and must win again to cop as a second loss will tie Wrightstown, Freedom and the idle Locks crew for top honors.

If DePere trips Freedom Sunday, DePere and the Locks will tie for the top with Freedom tied with Wrightstown for third. Then if Wrightstown takes a second from Freedom, the losers will be in fourth with the other three tied for the top. A Freedom win over DePere and loss to Wrightstown will tie all but DePere from the top, while a Freedom win over Wrightstown after losing to DePere will tie all but Wrightstown for the top, so that a triple tie is bound to ensue somewhere, unless Freedom cops both of

APPLETON ACES LOSE TO OSHKOSH BALLERS

Oshkosh — "Joe" Egner, the new Teela Sheet Metal hurler, pulled the iron man stunt and got away with it when he won Sunday and Labor day games for the Teelas.

The victories were over the Fond du Lac Orioles at Menominee park on Sunday, and over the Appleton Aces at Appleton on Labor day. The score of the first game was 5 to 4 and in the second tracas it was 7 to 3.

In the Labor day game at Appleton Egner pitched brilliant ball and allowed but four hits, while striking out 20 of the opponents. Besides having an exceptional day on the mound, he also connected with a triple and two singles, to drive in three runs and score twice himself.

them the tilts to make it sure. Combined Locks, all caught up on its playing, is the team most likely to be in the top tie, benefiting by its three big rivals meeting each other, while it rests.

OTTUMWA TAKES M. V. PENNANT

Les Smith, Combined Locks Boy, Big Aid to Iowans in Flag Chase

When Ottumwa, Iowa, clinched the 1926 pennant in the Mississippi Valley loop Saturday by beating Rock Island, Ill., crew in the first game of a double header, the work of a Combined Locks youth, Lester "Les" Smith, crack outfielder, played a great part in winning the bunting. Smith, who played with Appleton in the old State league and later with Reedsburg, has been hitting third in the Ottumwa lineup and was one of the first five batters in the league, according to the last official records received here. He is high up among the double and home run hitters of the loop and is ranked as one of the best fielders in the circuit.

Smith was picked up by a Detroit Tiger scout who watched his work at

THESE TWO CLUBS PASS 100-MARK IN DEFEATS

Two clubs, Columbus in the American Association and Reading in the International League, are staging a race to see which can lose the most games over the entire season. Both have passed the century mark in defeats. Reading looks well on its way to a new losing record.

Reedsburg on the team managed by C. L. "Doc" Kolb now of Appleton, and Buck Weaver, banished White Sox star. The Tygers farmed him out to Ottumwa, their farming grounds, after he had shown stuff in spring training camp. He has played there two years and from his work this year, he probably will be recalled by Cobb for another tryout during spring training next spring, at least so the Ottumwa management believes. Ottumwa is owned by the Detroit ball magnates.

Smith is the son of Paul Smith, superintendent of the Combined Locks Paper Co., and manager of the Combined Locks team, a leader in the Intercounty loop.

KAUKAUNA STAR WILL ENROLL AT MARQUETTE

One of the best all-around athletes in the Fox river valley will enroll at Marquette university this fall, according to reports from Kaukauna where the lad, Nel Gonyo, performed a stellar game, at the end of the 1926 Klaw high school eleven, the best ever produced by the school. He starred both on offense and defense and his perfect catch of a pass gave the Electric city boys their first touchdown against Appleton here last fall.

In basketball, Gonyo played a year at forward and a second at guard when his services were needed there. He was declared pro last year on a mere technicality and this caused Kaukauna's withdrawal from the district meet which it had a chance of winning.

Gonyo is a hard-fighter, speedy and has a fine athletic build. He will make a real addition to any college team he tries for. He is a product of Coach William "Tiger Bill" Smith, a Lawrence grad.

AMERICA HOLDS CUP FROM FRENCH BOAT

Detroit, Mich. — (P) — Gar Wood, Detroit sportsman, Wednesday remained in possession of the Harmsworth trophy, emblematic of world speed boat supremacy. With Miss America V. he Tuesday defeated the French challenging boat, Excelsior-France, which quit the race and conceded victory to the defender after completing one heat with a crippled motor. The challenge boat, said to have been damaged in shipment here was able to do but little better than 41 miles an hour during the time it remained in the race. Wood piloted the winner the 30 nautical miles of the heat at an average speed of more than 61 miles an hour. He was closely followed by his other two entries, the Misses America III and IV.

Successfully defending the trophy, Wood accomplished a feat which has never been duplicated—won a third Harmsworth victory.

Over two billion smoked a month!

—natural tobacco taste has the "call" these days!

Men have certainly made their preference clear!

REMEMBER just a few years back you saw but few Chesterfields?

Mighty different today! You see them everywhere! But it's not that fact, but the reason, that's the interesting thing.

Natural tobacco taste—a taste secured by matching one fine variety against another, a taste which retains tobacco character—that's why Chesterfield is America's fastest-growing cigarette, and has been for four consecutive years. Not much doubt nowadays about what smokers want!

Kimberly 10, Neenah 2.

WEEK'S GAMES

Wednesday—NEENAH AT APPLETON; Kaukauna at Kimberly.
Friday—KIMBERLY AT APPLETON; Kaukauna at Neenah.

Appleton and Kimberly won their opening games in the valley softball tourney Tuesday to go into a tie for the top with Kaukauna and Neenah bringing up the rear. Both took easy wins, the Appleton crew piling up an early lead to beat the Electric city gang, 18-5 and Kimberly stepping on the other home team, 10-2. With Wednesday's game probably called off by rain the leaders will clash Friday at Appleton.

Graef, hurling for Appleton, and Dohr, Kimberly star, both held the enemy with ease, Colvin finishing for Appleton at Kaukauna. The Appleton men clouted the pill hard behind Graef's twirling and fielded in great style, while Kaukauna showed that it was not used to play with a 12-inch ball, the big 17-incher being used there all year. Near the end of the game the Kaws players were getting used to the smaller pill and future rivals will have a tougher time.

Appleton started out by getting four runs in the opener, two in the second and another in the third before being stopped. Then in the sixth the balloon went up and the local men got eight more. Twenty hits clattered off of Appleton bats and errors and wild throws aided them in the fourth. Kaukauna scored once in the fourth, sixth and seventh and twice in the ninth. Graef held them without a hit in six frames and Colvin allowed three in the last three.

Schabo and Smith clouted long home runs for Appleton, though neither found men on bases and Schabo fielded sensationally taking care of three haru liners at third. McKenzie also brought down a hard hit fly over his head in center field that looked good for at least two bases. Every Appleton man got a hit with most of them getting at least three. Graef, Klammer and Lozon got Kaukauna's three hits and two runs were scored on Appleton errors.

Lineups:
Appleton—Schabo, 3b; McKenzie, cf; Starnard, ras; Bayer, c; McCourt, rf; King, 1b; Fries, 1b; Smith, lf; Wheeler, 2b; Frawley, 1st; Graef, p; Colvin, p.
Kaukauna—Frawley, c; Youngberg, p; Klammer, 1b; Andrews, ras; Graf, 1st; Ashauer, 3b; Pahnke, rf; Phillips, 2b; Behrens, lf; Lozon, cf.
Appleton 4 2 1 0 0 8 0 1 2—18
Kaukauna 0 0 0 1 0 1 1 0 2—5
Batteries: Appleton—Graef, Colvin and Bayer; Kaukauna—Youngberg and Francis.

Dave's Dots And Dashes

Tuesday afternoon we watched a valley tournament softball game at Kaukauna and incidentally got a glimpse of Coach Bill Smith's prospects for a winning grid squad. The Tigers were practicing beyond the ball field and believe us, it looks count for anything. It's going to take a mighty good Appleton outfit to beat them this year. They have a tough schedule but the line is one which will be one of the huskiest in the valley with a backfield of vets and strong reserves of last year who looked fine in the work-out.

Coach Bill himself is as pessimistic as usual, the same attitude he had for the last two years when his cage and grid teams started putting the Kaws city on the athletic map. To talk to him you'd think Kaukauna would be lucky to beat Combined Locks this year, but he said the same things last year at this time and look what happened. Opposing squads might do well to work extra hard for the Kaukauna game this year.

Instead of the crack of the baseball bat, the thud of the football is now echoing up and down the valley. All the Little Eight conference eleven's lost little time in getting into action after the bells rang out for the opening of the fall school sessions, immediately after Labor Day.

The Packers are working out every day at the City stadium in Green Bay getting ready for the game next Sunday with Iron Mountain. Nearly every member of the Big Bay Blues squad has reported and, from early indications, the Packers of 1926 will be Green Bay's greatest team of pro footballers.

There will only be one new football coach in the valley conference this season. Joe Shields is a newcomer in the Little Eight and he will hold away at Appleton. Instead of having a half dozen gridiron 'bosses' at Oshkosh, Schmitt Schneider, ex-Ripon star is to have complete charge. The annual banquet of the Fox River Valley league will be held at the Conway hotel in Appleton on Sept. 22. It is the aim of the league officials to make this year's a record breaker in every respect. Several prominent 'big time' baseball leaders will be invited to address the circuit gathering.

MACK PICKS ANOTHER YOUTH

BILL BARBEE

Our old friend, Connie Mack, boss of the Athletics, has enjoyed more than mediocre success in picking up youngsters and developing them into first-class ball players. Eddie Collins was one of the most notable examples.

This season the elongated Mr. Mack seems to have uncovered another likely looking lot in Bill (right name Dave) Barbee. Mack found Barbee down in the little Piedmont League blazing away in stellar style. An infielder Connie has used him in the outfield, too.

Barbee, it was, who made such an auspicious start in the majors a while ago. In his first time at bat, and with a couple of mates on the cushions, Barbee promptly slapped a triple to the center field fence in regular Dick Merrivell fashion. He's been doing nicely ever since.

Dempsey Found Willard Easy To Whip While Big Firpo Gave Him Real Go

Expected Less to Give Hard Battle While Luis Was Thought to Be Setup

This is the seventh of a series of 10 articles by Joe Williams, staff critic of NEA Service, Inc., relating some of the more interesting and unusual episodes in the pugilistic career of Champion Jack Dempsey.

BY JOE WILLIAMS
"Say, you never can tell about this fight racket," it was Jack Dempsey talking. I had asked him if he had any preconceived ideas on the outcome of his fight with Gene Tunney. If he figured it would be a short fight or a long one, a hard fight or an easy one.

"No, you never can tell about this fight racket," he repeated. "A lot of times the easy fights turn out to be murder, and the hard ones are soft."

"What fight do you think was the easiest I ever had," Dempsey asked me.
I began making a mental check over his many battles but before I could hazard a guess, his impetuosity, as manifest in speech as in ring work, exploded:
"Willard."

This was the fight, as the world knows, in which the young westerner conceded some 60 pounds to the ruling champion and battered him to fragments in three rounds, thus acquiring the title.

I expected Willard to knock me down a couple of times anyway," went on Dempsey. "I was so sure that I would be knocked down that I debated with myself whether to take mine or leap right up. If I could, and tear back into him and maybe catch him off guard."

"Well you know what happened. I had him whipped from the first punch. He hit me with only one punch that I remembered, a right uppercut, that found the button. I'm not saying that punch didn't hurt because it did. But it wasn't a knock-down punch, or even close to it."

Dempsey then turned to the other side of the picture. He told how he had figured Louis Firpo to be a "push-over" and how he had run afoul of one of the greatest shocks in his career.
"When I was matched with the Bull," said Dempsey, "I said to myself, 'Well, this is a cakewalk for my boy. All he's got is a right hand and he telegraphs that from one end of the ring to the other. He ought to be easier than Fulton.'"
"Now I still think I had him doped right. He was a terrible fighter and it was almost an accident when he managed to land his right hand—the only thing he had in the world to recommend him as a heavyweight prospect."

turn me dizzy. The impact was enough. I wasn't myself until after the rest between the first and second rounds and in the meantime I took an awful pasting from that guy I figured was a clown."

Dempsey says his fight with Carpenter was a hard one, too, but for an entirely different reason.
"It wasn't hard fighting him, although he did sock me a pretty good clout in the second round. The hard part was in training. I knew I was too big and too strong for him and I was a cinch to win unless I fell down and broke a couple of legs."

"Yet I had to go through two full months of training—two full months of hard work for a fight I knew I could win without training at all. For the first time in my life working for a fight was an ordeal. I hated it. The fun I used to know at training was gone."

I asked Dempsey if he was having any "fun" training for this fight with Tunney.
"I don't know whether you'd call it fun," he answered rubbing a split ear reflectively. "but it isn't a grind in the same sense training for the Frenchman was. I KNEW I could whip him."

PURDY STARTS RALLY AS COLLINS MEN WIN

Chicago—(AP)—Chicago drove Smith off the mound in the first inning, took a commanding lead, and defeated Detroit, 4 to 2, in the final game of the series. By making a clean sweep of the three games, Chicago won the season's series, fourteen games to eight.

Purdy, outfielder purchased from Lincoln, and Bud Clancy, purchased from Little Rock, started the rally which gave Chicago the game.

CUBS DROP 2 GAMES ON SUNDAY, MONDAY

The Appleton Cubs dropped two games over Sunday and Monday, both by close margins, when they lost to Black Creek at that city Sunday, 3-1, and were forced to accept a second defeat Monday at Brandt park with the Appleton Aces, claimants of the city ball title, on the long end of a 6-5 score.

The game at Black Creek was played in a steady downpour and was a hurler's duel between Laabs of Appleton and Williams of the home team. The Monday game also was a mound battle, this time between Kranzuch, the winner, and W. Murphy. Verbrick and Kranzuch hurried for the winners with Summich receding. Malueg handled Murphy's shoots.

At 2:30 Sunday afternoon the Cubs will meet the Black Creek crew which defeated them last week and an effort will be made to revenge the beating. Laabs or W. Murphy will hurl for the Cubs Sunday with Malueg or Burke on the receiving end. The game will be played on the grounds across the street from the Appleton Chair Co.

Candle Glow Tea Room, a delightful place to dine.
